POLYPS

Polyps are benign (non-cancerous) growths that are found along the lining of the large intestine. There is concern they may be a precurser to cancer.

Sometimes nose polyps are also found.

Vocal cord polyps are occasionally found.

REMEDY:

This seems to work for many people:
For 6 weeks, take between 8,000-10,000mg Vitamin C in divided doses, daily.

If the polyps are in the vocal cords, also treat with moisture in the air using a humidifer, and get lots of rest.
